To whom it may concern:

The DOST-Forest Products Research and Development Institute (FPRDI) invites you to our upcoming webinar "Pantugtog Kawayan ni Juan: Usapang Kultura at Kabuhayan". This virtual event will happen on 12 November 2020 (Thursday) at 9:30-11:00 AM via Zoom, and will be livestreamed at DOST-FPRDI's official Facebook page.

The webinar will focus on the appreciation of indigenous music and the potential of bamboo musical instruments as a business venture. It is organized under DOST-FPRDI's "Bamboo Musical Instruments Innovation R&D Program", which aims to improve the quality of locally-made bamboo musical instruments (BMIs) and promote their use. We believe that the webinar will help raise public awareness on the cultural and socio-economic importance of these musical instruments.

With this, we humbly ask for assistance in inviting participants to the webinar. We hope that your office will forward this invitation to teachers and schools that you think will benefit most from the discussion.

We have attached the program for your reference. Participants may register at <https://forms.gle/iF2dT8YUoUB3cB8o6>. Since the Zoom room is limited to a small number of participants, registration will be on a first-come-first-serve basis. If registrants at Zoom maxes out, participants can still catch it live at the DOST-FPRDI Facebook page. Should you have any question, please do not hesitate to contact us at 09290667209 or at chinchinbrucal13@gmail.com.

Thank you very much.

Respectfully yours,

ARALYN L. QUINTOS
BMI Program Leader
